

Freedom Ride

© Janet Keller Richards 2016
janetkellerrichards.com

*She's the beautiful one who rides with the wind at her back.
Post and tether are far behind, faint in the distance.
Confident and bold, she gallops toward new horizons where exploration and discovery are intoxicating fragrances that pique her curiosity and bring her fully alive.
She knows she's got permission, she understands her authority.
She's more than able, more than able to charge into the wild where there is no fence, there are no boundary markers:
She's gone beyond their grasp and now the world is hers.*